

Topic: Immigration and Welcoming Communities

New Brunswick needs immigration to ensure a growing workforce. But immigrants don't tend to stay; Workers immigrate but leave New Brunswick. How can employers be inclusive and accommodating? And what can New Brunswick do to continue to be welcoming as people build their lives in the province?

To find a solution to this challenge, you might want to explore these questions:

- Why do people immigrate to New Brunswick?
- What are the benefits of immigrating to New Brunswick? What kind of opportunities exist that draw people and their families to the province?
- Where can immigrants go to find the kind of support needed to begin life in New Brunswick?
- What training and employment opportunities are available to help newcomers find meaningful work? What about programs that help immigrants keep that work, or advance their careers?
- How can New Brunswick employers, community organizations and other groups create welcoming communities?
- How can New Brunswick residents grow community supports for immigrants? What are ways to encourage cultural awareness?
